

S·E·A Reviews

“Steve, Erin, and Amber break down the barrier between stage and audience, providing an inclusive and personal experience at their shows. They encourage audience participation and speak to us like family. Through the mastery of their instruments, a comfort rises from their traditional musical background and comes across on stage like we're all just hanging out on the porch, playing and singing music together. A real treat!”

“When I heard that Scenic Roots and Steve Eulberg were appearing together, I jumped at the chance to see them. It was even more than I had hoped. Each of them brings great musicianship and technical skill, but even more than that they have a true love of roots music. And as an added bonus, they are fun. You can't help but grin along with them as they immerse themselves in tunes old and new. If it has strings, I think they can play it -- and you will be humming along or dancing.

“S·E·A (Steve Eulberg, Erin and Amber Rogers) is a melding of three, multi-instrumentalist, folk musicians. I saw them under a Big Top Tent last summer, in Lawrence, Kansas. More than revisiting the motivations that created folk music in the distant past, they illuminate the part of our cultural center which still speaks with Fiddles, Banjos, Dulcimers and vocal harmony. While the sound is refreshingly new, you can hum along and tap your foot. See these musicians, or your tapping toe will hate you.”

“I've been a fan [of Steve Eulberg's] for over 15 years. My daughter says his music always makes her want to dance, and I have to agree. The collaboration with Erin and Amber is simply delightful. They created a great sound together and obviously enjoyed entertaining us all through song and story.”

“I met Erin, Amber and Steve at the Nutmeg Dulcimer Festival in 2012 and 2013. I really enjoyed each of their performances. This most recent video posted [Didja Ever See the Devil Uncle Joe] is really good. I love that song and they are amazing. Looking forward to seeing you again in the future.”

“[S·E·A's arrangement of “Wild Mountain Thyme”] is absolutely gorgeous. Thank you for sharing your musical talents!!”

“I had the pleasure of attending a folk/bluegrass concert by [S·E·A] ... In a small intimate setting, we were treated to the music of award-winning dulcimer and clawhammer banjo and fiddle playing and vocals. A magical evening of folk standard tunes, original pieces, some Irish tunes (always my favorite) and some good humored stories. Perfect.”
